Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 9/23/2005 has been entered.

DETAILED ACTION

Claims 1, 5-6, 8-13 are cancelled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-4, 7 and 14-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mital (US 5,903,652) in view of Kipp (US 5,890,136).

Re. Claims 14 and 19, Mital discloses checking, at an authentication system in response to accesses to the authentication system from terminal devices of the users,

Art Unit: 3628

whether each of the users satisfies conditions for conducting a prospective transaction [Abstract; C3 L40-L53; C4 L27-L60; C5 L14-L25 – see for auditing functions]; transmitting respective, different matching keys from the authentication system to the terminal devices [C2 L40 to C3 L20; C4 L56-L61; C12 L50 to C13 L8 – see electronic mail module functions];

inputting, into a given one of the terminal devices, one of the matching keys that has been transmitted to and received by another one of the terminal devices and transmitting said one of the matching keys from said given one of the terminal devices to the authentication system and receiving a first one of the matching keys; receiving an input indicative of a second one of the matching keys that has been transmitted to and received by another one of the terminal devices [C1 L52-L57; C2 L40-L62; C22 L35-L57 – see sends an electronic message ...; a matching key is then used; public key, digital signature, private key];

checking, at the authentication system, whether said one of the matching keys matches one of the transmitted matching keys [C2 L17-L39 – see verify Carl's digital signature by comparing the digitally signed portion of the document with Carl's public key]; and notifying said one of the terminal devices a result of the checking of the matching keys [C29 L44-L51 - see merchant computers, GetOrder Function, and indicates that the data ...].

Mital does not explicitly disclose If identical transaction keys are selected on screens of the terminal devices and if each of the users satisfies the conditions, said different matching keys being generated based on the identical transaction keys.

However, Kipp discloses this feature [Fig. 2, Fig. 3 # 108, Fig. 4 #112, 114, 116, 118 ; C6 L39 to C7 L64] to automatically verify the customer identification to release the goods (provide service) for the proper customer. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify the disclosure of Mital and include identical transaction keys are selected on screens of the terminal devices and if each of the users satisfies the conditions, said different matching keys being generated based on the identical transaction keys, as disclosed by Kipp, to provide an automatic verification system to authenticate the buyer before providing the goods or services.

Re. Claims 15-18 and 20, claims 15-18 and 20 are system, apparatus and computer-readable medium claims substantially similar to method claims 14 and 19, therefore claims 15-18 and are rejected with same rational as claims 14 and 19.

Re. Claim 2, Mital discloses wherein the authentication system authenticates identities of the users prior to supplying a first user with the matching key [C4 L47 to C5 L25; C10 L36-L47].

Re. Claims 3-4, Mital discloses credit confirmation for a transaction (proposed transaction is within a previously determined credit) and payment authorization (wherein the authentication system determines whether the prospective transaction satisfies previously determined conditions for a transaction) [Figures 7-8A; C5 L50 to C6 L7; C8 L43-L57; C14 L54 to C15 L7] Mital does not explicitly disclose monetary limit. However, this step is commonly known to credit card holders and financial institutions issuing credit cards and is commonly known as credit limit (daily debit limit for ATM users), which are predetermined by the financial institutions to prevent over charging, loss and theft. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify the disclosure of Mital and include monetary limit to assure the transaction is within the credit limit granted to the cardholder for avoid major loss.

Re. Claim 7, Mital discloses providing payment of the transaction based on the matching results the authentication system [C1 L2 to C3 L9; C8 L43 to C9 L4; C29 L59 to C30 L65].

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Claims 2-4, 7 and 14-21 are rejected.
